Precious Honey Rose: ——

Your voice sounded worried when I called you up. Is there any trouble over your getting off yesterday? Have been worried since I called you up and certainly do hope nothing is wrong. Perhaps to-morrow you'll be able to talk a little more freely. I take it that there was some out there to-day.

Have just written to Rose telling her that I will not be able to run down to the house before Friday. Asked her to come down Thursday night to our house.

It is terrible cold here to-day, and I am fairly shaking my insides out. Am going to wash when I get home to-night. Put the clothes in the tub before I left this morning.

Will call you up to-morrow. am quite busy now, so shall close with all my love to my honey-bunch husband,

Lovingly
Frances.
